Dear Prime Minister,

Now that Brexit is over, I hope that you can deal with the deplorable situation which our vulnerable children find themselves in. Through no fault of their own they are being abused by the system under your Government's control. Much of the information that you need is in my communications to Mrs May and yourself based on a won educational tribunal in 2012; the evidence showed clearly that the child was put at risk by education, Social Services and the Council's other services repeatedly. Even though the Council professes not to label children, they did – as a naughty boy who needed restraining, rather than autistic with special needs. He was not diagnosed by the system (NHS) until he was 19 and had failed at his won placement due to lack of this diagnosis, even though he scored high on the autistic chart by his paediatrician before he was 6. Further diagnoses in his early teens were ignored.

I cannot explain to you the trauma this caused the child. He still suffers from traumatic stress as an adult in his 20's with no hope of a fulfilling life, due to his handling by the state. He is not alone, you have at least 2000 locked up without charge or diagnosis, let alone thousands rammed through a system built around the norm. You have a responsibility of duty of care and to honour their human rights, which you have failed to do. As such you are responsible for this child abuse. To save money, their numbers were severely under-estimated, and they have been sold short ever since. If you do not diagnose them, then you have no children with special needs and so do not need to put in the infrastructure. You then label them as naughty, even though you have caused the problem for them, and they receive nothing but abuse (mental, physical and emotional) rather than the help that is needed to turn their lives around.

I do not just blame you; all of the Heads of Departments and Ministers involved have to share responsibility. Please send me details of your complaints procedure and all of the paperwork which I have already asked for so that the child can finally get justice.

Yours sincerely,

Howard Lamb
