Dear Prime Minister,

It is with great sadness that I have to write to you again. I have clearly told you about child abuse, both as a clinician and as a whistle-blower, yet you have ignored my previous communications. Why?

I have witnessed at first hand the effect of restraint, mental abuse, and labelling as naughty, due to the child's deliberate non-diagnosis as autistic.

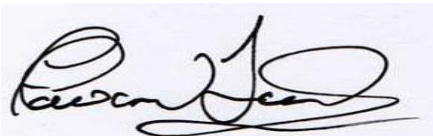

Only you can say who set up the system to abuse these children; this abuse which continues today due to your in-action. Covering up what has and is happening on your shift (even though you were not originally responsible) is a criminal act yet no actions have been taken.

Recently some private schools pupils opened a helpline for those who have been abused. The whole system clicked into action, as the Government was not responsible. Yet an abused autistic child takes their life and it's a cry for attention from a naughty child, when in fact the Government is responsible and has twisted the system.

As I have said on multiple occasions through professional bodies and regulators, two Prime Ministers and 2 Attorney Generals, this needs a proper independent investigation rather than the D-notice type situation that we have at the moment.

When you send me the paperwork which I have requested many times and details of your complaints procedure, could you please send details of which department investigates such matters.

Yours Sincerely,

Howard Lamb, DC
