Dear Prime Minister,

I have written to you on numerous occasions regarding the lamentable/deplorable treatment of autism by your and previous governments. Children are not being diagnosed on purpose, then labelled and treated as if naughty. This is virtually opposite to the treatment for autism and is harmful to the child. By stopping any responsibility and then blaming the child and the family the damage caused to a child is enormous, as I can testify after a 12-year case study on Child X.

You have not communicated or lifted one finger to help these children; if anything you have made things worse through your inability to finance care. This cover-up is a national disgrace and should be independently investigated as the corruption starts at the top; only then can the harm done to these from childhood to adulthood be atoned for and begin to be rectified.

Please explain why any of this is honourable.

Yours sincerely,

Howard Lamb
