Dear Prime Minister,

After checking my records I do not seem to have had any response from you or your Cabinet Secretary, Mr Case. I find it hard to believe that you have ignored large numbers of children who have not been diagnosed through their critical stages of development and have been labelled as naughty. This has had a devastating effect on their juvenile, adolescent, and adult lives. Parliamentary and public records show that they have been severely under-funded with diagnosis either being delayed or avoided. Your own party found that this had been done deliberately under Labour and is in the Parliamentary records. Funds that were allocated ended up elsewhere and staff have not been correctly trained, just taught to restrain.

Knowing that this has been happening and ignoring it, covering up the damage done to tens of thousands under the Conservative government has perverted the course of justice. Child abuse, particularly by the state and its cover up, through corrupting the system so that there is no ability for complaint to be heard is a serious crime. Historic child abuse is often prosecuted but if the system does not prosecute itself and self-regulate properly then the abuse continues. You have had the opportunity to end this vicious cycle but have not done so. At this stage I can only speculate as to why but Mr Case will probably hold the keys having been brought in by Mr Johnson who did not fulfil his protocols and procedures in respect of my direct communications, and who avoided compliance contrary to the Minister/Prime Minister code.

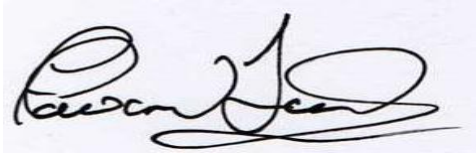

You have had the opportunity to make a difference to these children's lives but have not taken it. I must assume that this is to protect your Party and Parliament from the voter's backlash. Successive Governments since the Rt Hon Mr Blair's through to yours seem to feel that they have no responsibility as 'the political elite'; two sets of rules which need to change. I have seen at first hand the damage which has been done and it must stop. You swore an oath to work for the greater good for all of the people, not just the non-tax-paying rich. If you cannot fulfil your oath then you need to go but losing your Parliamentary privilege would open you up for future prosecution so clearly you will not resign.

Please forward me details of your complaints procedure and details of you Ethics Advisor. You are in charge of a system corrupted by politicians which has been abusing children with special needs for decades and have been covering it up.

I believe this to be a criminal act and will forward this letter to the police.

A prompt response would be appreciated.

Yours sincerely,
