Dear Prime Minister,

You and your predecessors have steadfastly refused to engage over the deplorable way our autistic/ADHD children have been handled, through wrong and non-diagnosis.

Avoiding diagnosis to save money has not helped their development; on the contrary it has led to them being traumatised and in many cases not educated to basic standards. Over the decades short sharp shock has been used to control them and failed, leaving them damaged and unable to cope in the real world. Many are sectioned or end up in prison where the suicide rate is high in comparison to the norm.

The cover-up of these actions has perverted the course of justice. No diagnosis means no help in the development and often trauma both mental and physical through restraint. Perverting the course of justice is an automatic jail sentence, so I understand your reluctance to admit to these crimes against humanity. However, until you do the plight of these children with special needs will continue, as will the big cover-up. Too big to fail and has! I understand why there has been the need to cover-up as after all who is going to vote for the child-abusers? What else can you call people who rig the system so that complaints are not heard? Children are abused and traumatised through wrong diagnosis of naughtiness and their human rights are removed. The police will not prosecute those responsible and are clearly involved with the cover-up.

What a mess! I know that you inherited this situation, but it goes back to New Labour and beyond and affects multiple generations – it needs to be stopped before yet more generations are involved. It is possible that you have been kept in the dark by the Cabinet Office and others and if so it would explain your silence on this matter. I do not believe that to be true but until all the evidence is in, I am willing to give you the benefit of the doubt. How can there be justice when human rights and democracy are removed? Clearly people did not vote you in to abuse their children.

I look forward to your response or at least some communication from the Cabinet Office. Perverting the course of justice is an offence committed when a person prevents justice from being served on themselves or on another party. Just for the record, in England and Wales it is a common law offence and carries a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.
