Dear Prime Minister,

It would seem that the abuse of children through denying their special needs is not of any importance to you. We have seen your attitude towards the grooming and rape of young women across the country. Your fictitious black hole in government finance would have been enough to solve the elephant in the room, which is autism and ADHD, but you seem to have your own political agenda rather than what was stated during your election campaign.

I have repeatedly asked for all the paperwork related to my correspondence with various Prime Ministers and as yet have not received any. I have suggested which laws have been broken and the potential for your criminal actions. I have asked for you to be investigated for breeches of the Minister's Code but have had no response.

Please explain how this is possible in a democracy.
